AN ARTISTIC BUTCHER.—In one of the market houses of Philadelphia is a genius of a butcher. Beneath his sleeves and apron he wears the costliest broadcloth—none of the inferior grades, but the finest production of French looms. His linen is as faultless as his exterior garments, while the glistening surface of his marble counters is no less striking than the glassiness of his hat and ng surface of this manufectures of his hat and striking than the glossiness of his shirt bosom boots. In the centre of his shirt bosom sparkles a single diamond—a stone of six upon the first water. Upon boots. In the centre of his shirt bosom sparkles a single diamond—a stone of six carats weight, and of the first water. Upon the little finger of his left hand glitters a circlet of diamonds, six in number, whose aggregate value is considerably more than that of the garniture of his shirt bosom. His complexion is a clear red and white—just that style of complexion which Parisian ladies produce by dainty commixture of carmine and bismuth. He is a man of fine physique, and has an avoirdupois of about 200 pounds. His address is polished, and his manners courtly and suave. He commenced life without a dollar, and is now taxed for some $30,000 in real estate, yet is as polite and deferential to his customers as on the day he first embarked in the business of converting quarters of beef into chops and sirloins. A benevolent lady of large fortune first noticed him, and placed at his disposal a fund upon which he has raised the superstructure of his present fortune. He is now rapidly advancing in wealth, and will probably retire upon the eighth of a million. And all through the influence of that specific against adversity—politeness.

Racy of the Soll.—Having had occa-

RACY OF THE SOIL.—Having had occasion, lately, to visit a sister city, I had the pleasure of an invitation to dinner from one of her popular justices of the peace, which I gladly accepted for two reasons: first, that being a comparative stranger in a large city, civilities of this kind are the most welcome; and second, that my host being one of the most joyial and witty fellows in existence, I was a superposed a very pleasant time; and I was most jovial and witty fellows in existence, I anticipated a very pleasant time; and I was not disappointed. While enjoying our dinner, and discussing the current topics of the day, a ring was heard proceeding from the street door. The servant answered the bell, and immediately informed us that an Irish gentleman wished to speak to the squire on important business. The squire excused himself, and after the lapse of about ten minutes, returned with the Irish gentleman, whom with a merry twinkle of the left eye, he introduced as "Mr. O'FlaLetty, of Tipperary, Ireland"

Mr. O'F., after many profuse acknowledge-he introduced as "Mr. O'Flal.etty, of Tipperary, Ireland"

Mr. O'F., after many profuse acknowledgments, for the honor done him, joined us at table, and we proceeded with our conversation. After many subjects had been summarily disposed of, the squire, turning to his guest, said, in his quaint style:

"Mr. O'Flaherty, you would be a long time in Ireland before a squire would ask you to dinner?"

"Ah, then, troth I would, your honor," responded Mr. O'Flaherty, "and your honor would be a long time in Ireland before they would make you a squire."

I need not say that I collapsed, and the squire quietly turned to me, and remarked that the answer was "racy of the soil."

POTENT RESULTS OF A TASTE FOR LIGHT FRENCH WINES.—An English gentleman in the south of France says—"So you are going to have cheap wines and a tenpenny income-tax. I think the reduction on brandy going to have cheap wines and a tenpenty income-tax. I think the reduction on brandy will give a greater extension to it than wine, at least for ten years to come. Many good French wines are only good for three or four years, after that, they turn into vinegar. They are of course the cheap kinds, but they are good and wholesome for that time. In England you never taste them, but when the duly gets 1s. per gallon, plenty of good sound wine will be in England easily procured at 10d, to 1s. a bottle, duty paid. I pay 5 1-2d. to 6d. for good sound vintage '58. I buy a small cask at a time, about welve gallons, and drink it on a tap, the same as I did in England of bitter beer. I shail be anxiously looking to the debates to see if the treaty will pass and the budget. I think it will by a good majority, and then five years hence it will be impossible to go to war with France, just the same as it would now be with the United States.

THE MONES PRONOUNCING.—AN O'CONNELL LEADING THE OPPOSITION.—A letter from Bologna describes a "row" which has taken place among the monks established in convents around that town: "The clergy in convents around that town: "The clergy were allowed by Farini to exercise political rights. When the day of using these political rights came, a majority of these friars openly declared their intention to vote for annexation. An Irishman who, both by his virtues and learning, exercises a great influence over the younger monks of the convent, boldly took the lead in the matter, and went with several of his brethren to the poll. It is worthy of notice that this liberal friar is a nephew of Daniel O'Connell. Great was the uproar among the elder Dominicans when they learned that their Irish brother had been the author of such a scandal." A row ensued in which the Irishman's party (as a matter of course) came out victorious.

(as a matter of course) came out victorious.

Enjoyment.—Mankind are always happier for having been happy—so that if you make them happy now, you make them happy twenty years hence by the memory of it. A childhood passed with a due mixture of rational indulgence, under fond and wise parents, diffuses over the whole of life a feeling of calm pleasure, and in extreme old age is the very last remembrance which time can erase from the mind of man. No enjoyment, however inconsiderable, is confined to the present moment. A man is the happier for life from having once made an agreeable tour, or lived for any length of time with pleasant people, or enjoyed any considerable interval of innocent pleasure; which contributes to render old men so inattentive to the scenes before them, and carries them back to a werld that is past, and to scenes never to be renewed again.

fig The vain man idolizes his own per-son, and here he is wrong; but he cannot bear his own company, and here he is right.

nesh. An ill-tempered man carries his own smoke, and makes not only his own eyes smart but those of other people.

Exploring Expedition.

Strange as it may appear, yet but little more is known of the industrial resources of the interior of the island, than there was nown centuries ago, when the Greek pilot, Apostolos Valerianos, more commonly known as Juan de Fuca, visited the Strait that bears his name. The trading voyages of the Hudson Bay Company, up the of Georgia, through Johnson's Straits, and up to Cape Scott, have added comparatively nothing more to the sum of general knowledge as regards the capabilities of the public domain, than the tri-monthly trading voyages of Capt. McKay in the schooner Surprise to the West Coast. Both parties have skirted the shore; but the interior is a terra incognita. For the advancement of settlement, and the furtherance of commerce, even the shore is inaccurately known, and even the credit of that is due to voyagers and traders on the East and coast. The lofty range forming the back-bone of the island, whose dark sides are clothed with tall pines to the very sea, are known to-day only from the ship's deck to our inhabitants as they were a century ago to Juan Perez and Estevan Martinez, when they discovered Nootka Sound. Whether possess diamonds that vie with th of Golconda, or gold like the Sierra Nevada. or only furnish pines like the cedars of Lebanon, is still unsolved; and so far as the public witness the lack of energy in the government, is still likely to be for many a long year. Partaking of the characteristics of the aborigines who reside at spots only on the shore, we have located ourselves at the extreme southeast of the island, and are apparently content to let another century pass without learning whether the public patrimony in the interior is a wilderness or Whether we have mines of iron a garden. to weld with our fields of coal, enabling us to aspire to be the Great Britain of the Pacific, is still unknown. Whilst other of the Anglo-Saxon race have brought San Francisco within eighteen days of London; while they have organized their telegraphs, and are urging them on to completion, to girdle the earth with the lightning's flash from London, eastward through Europe, Asia, and America, and even to traverse our own domain, we set supinely by and take no measures to make public our industrial resources, and invite enterprise and population. Some may imagine it is wise to pass life in a Rip-Van-Winkle sleep but what in the Providence of God will result from it, is inscrutable to human eyes, Our belief is like Frederick the Great's "that the gods help the best drilled soldiers;" and so, if some effort is not to explore and make public the capabilities of the country that work will remain for another generation, who will deplore and

SALE OF PLANTS .- A large sale of plants comprising many of the choicest varieties will take place this morning, at the salesroom of P. M. Backus, Yates street. This sale will afford our residents a fine opportunity to beautify their gardens.

The Queen's Birthday.

The forty-first anniversary of Queen Vic-toria's birthday was observed on Thursday with a spirit which speaks well for the loyalty of our residents.

At sunrise, the flags of almost every na tion under the sun, were waving from various flag-staffs, and the shipping in the harbor displayed their gayest colors : several private dwellings also displayed flags. H. M. Ships Ganges, Topaze and Satelite were dressed in holiday uniform.

The sun was hidden behind murky clouds during the greater part of the day; but con trary to general prognostication, no rain fell to mar the general enjoyment.

At 12 o'clock, M., a salute of twenty one guns was fired from the vessels of war a Esquimalt; and at one o'clock, P. M., the tide of people which had during the morning thronged our streets, set out for Beacon Hill for the purpose of attending the races, and before two o'clock, about two thousand perons had assembled to witness the sport.

THE RACES.

Which were under the patronage of Chief Justice Cameron, commenced at 2 P. M., with the Hurdle Race, for $100, which was on in two straight heats by T. Harris's brown gelding "George." There were two competitors in this race. The Queen's Plate value $150, was not run for, on account of only one horse being entered. The Sweep stakes for $50, was won by J. Parker's chestnut gelding "Selleck;" in 2 min. and 2s., against six others, distanced in the first heat. The Scurry Stakes were carried off by J. Parker's roan mare "Sall;" four others ran. Several match races were run late in the afternoon, and considerable betting ensued. Everything seemed conducted in a perfectly fair manner, and appeared to give general satisfaction. ACCIDENTS, INCIDENTS, ETC.

During the afternoon a young man name

A buggy, on its way towards the racegrounds, was upset about noon, and its occupants "spilled," but no other damage done.

A horse, ridden by a well dressed man, whose name we could not ascertain, stumbled and fell, and rolled completely over his rider. The man was somewhat stunned; but beyond a few deep cuts in the face, received trifling injury.

Several fights took place during the day and evening, between patriotic individuals who had imbibed too much of the ardent, but we heard of nothing serious, owing to the presence of an efficient police force.

NAVAL-News arrived by the last mail that Admiral Sir Thomas Maitland will succeed Admiral Baynes on the Pacific Station. He will hoist his flag on the Bacchante, 51 guns, a new steam frigate superior to the Two-gun boats and three other men-of-war are on their way here. EXCITING RACE AFTER A SIWASH .- HE ESCAPES BY SWIMMING. SHOT AT BY INDIANS .-- Yesterday morning. about 11 o'clock, a man on View street espied a Hyder Indian whom he suscted of having stolen some clothing from him the day before. He accosted the redskin, when that individual immediately "cut gravel" in the direction of the harbor. The white man gave chase, and followed the Indian to Rousset's Wharf, where the latter disappeared among the piles supporting that structure. A short time after he was observed making his way along under Union Wharf, and a large crowd having assembled, a chase commenced. The Indian who had drawn a horse-pistol leaped nimbly from pile to pile, occasionally taking to the water, when necessary, and finally emerged from under Young's Warehouse, on Johnson street, and struck a bee-line for Rock Bay. The crowd, which now numout two hundred persons, through Store street with the design of cutting off his retreat: but the Indian contin-ued along the water front, occasionally brandishing his pistol, by way of a warning to not come too near, and on gaining a point about opposite the Hyder encampment, several rifles were fired across the Bay at the whites, the balls whistling over their heads, and causing a stampede in an opposite direction. Profitting by this diversion in his favor, the Siwash "peeled off" his clothing an plunged into the water, and after swimning half-way across was met by a canoe ming half-way across was met by a canoe filled with friends, who paddled him in triumph to his home. Officer Andrews subsequently crossed the bridge and attempted to arrest the fugitive, but was presented by his friends, who draw titles provented by his friends, who drew rifles and pistes and fired at the officer twice, after which he was fain to beat a hasty retreat

CUTTING WITH A KNIFE-DECIDEDLY A MIXED AFFAIR.-Last night, between nine and ten o'clock, James Davison, in passing along Kanaka road, heard a cry of murder, and on proceeding to the spot discovered a half-breed Indian, named Alfred McNeil, and a negro, named Lewis Scott, scufflingeach having hold of a knife. When Davison came up the parties separated, and McNeil was subsequently arrested in Ringo's restaurant on Yates street. The case was heard in the Police Court, yesterday. Scott's hands were badly cut, and he day. Scott's hands were badly cut, and he stated that McNeil had commenced the assault, and attempted to stab him, and that he had cut his hands in warding off the blows. McNeil, on the other hand, deposed that the negro had struck him, and afterwards drew the kinde and tried to plunge it into him. McNeil was remanded to jail until to-morrow to await the production of further testimony.

INDIAN FIGHT .- A large number of Hyder and Simpseau Indians amused themselves on Thursday by fighting with clubs at the race-course. Quite a number were knocked down, and black eyes and bloody noses were to be found in any quantity. One of the noisiest of the Hyders, a stalwart fellow, was particularly noticeable from the accom-plished manner in which he handled a paat of the limb of a tree, and having knocked down two or three of his red-skinned foes was hallooing loudly for more antagonists to show themselves, when he was suddenly approached from behind by his clootchman (a good specimen of a virago) who dealt him two or three round cuffs on either side of the head. The poor fellow, when he saw by whom he was thus saluted, dropped the club and his head at the same time, and coup and ms head at the same time, and suffered his indignant helpmate to lead him away, without another word. He was evidently a hen-pecked husband. The riot was quelled by the appearance of several policemen.

INFORMATION WANTED .- In September of last year, we published an item to the effect "that a man, a native of Nova Scotia or Prince Edward's Island, named Hart, engaged in cutting timber near New Langley, B. C., was killed by a tree falling on him." The item found its way to Frederickton, New Brunswick, and attracted the attention of Mrs. Julia C. Hart, who has a attention of Mrs. Julia C. Hart, who has a wandering son, named Julian Charles Beckwith Hart, supposed to be in British Columbia, from whom she has not heard for years. Surmising that the man killed may be her son, the anxious mother says that he "was under the middle-size, had light brown hair and light blue eyes." Will any kindly-disposed person, who may have known the man killed at Langley, furnish us with any information he may possess in regard to the deceased?

New Steamer J T. Wright is now loading lumber at Port Ludlow Mills. Her masts are in and her rigging all set up. She will be towed to Port Townsend by the Anderson next week The J. T. House of Assembly.

Friday, May 25, 1860.

The House met at half past three o'clock. Prevent Speaker Helmcken, and Messrs. Foster, Cooper, Crease, Coles, Cooper, Waddington, Frankin, Tolmie, McDonald, and Greene.

Mr. Waddington presented a petition from Ghas, Simmonds, stating that he had obtained his diploma as Attorney and Barrister; that he had practised for twelve years in the Courts of New Brunswick, and that he had come here to establish himself, and bring out his tamily; but finds himself excluded from practising, and prays for relief. The petition was referred to the Committee on Bill to Regulate the Legal Profession.

The Committee on Elections were excused from meeting until next Monday week.

Mr. Poster asked who performed the functions of Governor for Vancouver Island during His Excellency's absence. He wanted to know to whom the House was to apply for information. It was always usual in other colonies that an Administrator should be appointed. Who is Administrator here?

Mr. Speaker—I have received no information on the subject, and can furnish none.

Mr. Waddington—It is always customary to appoint an Administrator in such c.acs, and I suppose it has been done here.

The Bill for regulate the currency of Vancouver Island, was taken up and passed to third reading.

The bill for the Administration of Oaths by the House of Assembly, and the production of evidence before committees of the same was taken up for the third reading.

Mr. Franklin introduced an amendment that the Act only apply to the Election Committee, and to matters subsequent thereto.

Mr. Foster did not approve of the amendment. He should regret very much to see the original bill would be rendered uscless by the amendment.

Mr. Crease said by the adoption of the amendment be passed, he would immediately ask leave to withdraw it. He trusted that the hon. members would pass the bill before the House.

Mr. Green suggested that as the bill would be rendered into nonsense, and should such an amendment be passed, he would immediately ask l thing.

The amendment was lost—ayes, Messrs. Tolmie, Franklin and Green; noes, Messrs. McDonald, Waddington, Cooper, Coles, Crease, Gordon, Foster.

Toster.

The original bill was then carried unanimously.
Mr. Crease gave totice of a motion that he would, on the 28th instant, introduce a Bill to regulate the Medical Profession.

The House adjourned to Monday, at 3 P. M.

The Doctor, who is averse to all patent medicines, wishes it to be understood that the above medicine is no such thing; but that he has, through the istroduction of this medicine with its treaties and directions for use, made every sufferer to be his own physician. Thinking it under my dignity to tollow the mode of quncks, by appending certificates of physicians or private persons, which is too well known can be had for certain remunerations, applications of friends, or private persons, which is too well known can be had for certain remunerations, applications of friends, or those in want of medicine to inquire personally of men who have been cured by my medicines of the above diseases, and who can be found in almost every city and, village throughout the State. I consider such personal conviction far superior to certificates of persons that are far from being known to them in want of medical aid.

But should any one care for written testimonials or certificates regarding the cures performed by this medicine, they might call at my office, and I will show them certificates of true merit, which have been sent to me voluntarily, without applying for them, or by boring individuals to get them.

To satisfy the most scrupilous of men, also as a guarantee to those that have not had the opportunity of knowing the Doctor by reputation or personally. I have adjoined to every bottle of the Anti-Rhemanic Cordial, the certificate, under oath, of one of the most characteristics, and has a very power all medicine, and has a very strong action on the human system, which it necessarily must have, to overcome the action of disease of such malignant character.

THE WRONG TRUNK—In the days of coaching over the Providence turnpike, before railroads were in esse, and baggagcrates existed, and when travellers had to keep a sharp look-out over their luggage some forty or fifty passengers had just stepped on board the old "Ben Franklin," and got under way on Naragensett Bay. A gentleman who had occasion to get some of his wardrobe, had just hauled out from an immense pile of baggage stowed amidships, a black leather trunk of portly dimensions, studded with brass nails, when a little withered Frenchman of a mottled complexion and fashionably dressed, darted from the crowd, and interposing between our friend and his property, exclaimed, courteously, but positively: "I beg your pardon, saremais pardonez moi—you have got ze wrong cochon by ze orselle—zat is my trunk!" "Not so, monsieur, I hope I know my own traps." "Restex tranquille—hold on—dans un instant, I will prove my props—aha! you see this key, eh!" Applying it to the lock, he threw up the lid, and then struck up a triunphant attitude. "My key unlock you trunk, eh? tell me zat?" "Stand out of the way its my trunk, I tell you!" "Hold on von leetle minute—zose you shuirts, ch?" "To be sure they are!" "Zose you drowaires, eh?" "Certainly." "Vait a moment I will prove my props sure;" and the little Frenchman, rummanging beneath a pile of shirts and socks, produced a bottle, and said deliberately, with a hideous grin: "Zat—your—bot telle of Dom frees ish (itch) ointment—sare eh? have you got von little ish? Zis you remcde for ze lepros (leprosy,) ch? Ah! by dam, I know it was my trunk!" It is needless to remark that our friend immediately "opened a wide gap" between himself and the interesting victim of two of the most unpopular disorders known to suffering humanity.

The Lawyerand the Doctor.—Colonel Stone, a practising lawyer, and Dr. Mason,

THE LAWYERAND THE DOCTOR.—Colonel Stone, a practising lawyer, and Dr. Mason, a practising physician, were rival candidates for the State Senate of Massachusetts, and were stumping the district together. Dr. Mason was a warm advocate for law-reform, were stumping the district together. Dr. Mason was a warm advocate for law-reform, and, in arguing its necessity, he referred to a certain case in which his competitor had been non-suited upon some technic; lity. "Now," said Dr. Mason, "we need to have the law reformed, or Colonel Stone is incompetent to bring a suit correctly—he can take either horn of the dilemma."

Colonel Stone replied: "Fellow citizens, the doctor has the advantage of me. When I make a mistake in my profession, he has only to go to the records of the court, and find it, and publish it to the world; but when he makes a mistake in his profession, he buries it six feet under ground!"

The people appreciated the lawyer's ready wit, and forgave him the blunder charged upon him, for the sake of the clover retort he made at the doctor's expense.

Found his Match.— In the Court of Quarter Sessions, a petty case was being tried. A well-known criminal lawyer, who prides himself upon his skill in cross-examining a witness, had an odd-looking genius upon whom to operate.

"You say, sir, that the prisoner is a thief?"

"Yes, sir; cause why, she confessed it."
"I do, sir."

"I do, sir."
"Then "—giving a sagacious look to the Court—" we are to understand that you employ dishonest people to work for you, even after their rascalities are known?"
"Of course; how else could? get assistance from a lawyer?"
The counsellor said, "stand aside," and in a tone which showed that if he had the witness's head in a bark-mill, no mercy might have been expected. The judge nearly choked himself in a futile endeavor to make the spectators believe that a laugh make the spectators believe that a laugh was nothing but a hiccough; while the wit-ness stepped off the stand with all the gravi-ty of a fashionable undertaker.

Not the Man.—A good anecdote is told of a man named Bently, a confirmed drinker, who would never drink with a friend or in public, and always denied, when a little too steep, even tasting liquor. One day some bad witnesses had concealed themselves in his room, and when the liquor was running down his throat, seized him, with his arm crooked and his month open, and holding him fast, asked him with an air of triumph: "Ah, Bently, have we caught you at iast? You never drink, ha!" Now, one would suppose that he would acknowledge the corn; not he; with the most grave and inexpressible face, he calmly, and in a dignified manner, said: "Gentlemen, my name is not Bently!"
